

Gaza is enduring genocide. Homes and streets are bombed; food, water, and medicine withheld. Hospitals lie in ruins, schools in rubble, and the cries of children echo across a land starved into silence. Survival itself has become resistance.

Nations that once claimed to defend justice now look away, guided by power and profit. Much of the media has turned elsewhere, while some even celebrate the violence. For citizens too, the daily images of death bring cruel fatigue. But silence is complicity.

The Chinta Ravi Foundation, established in memory of filmmaker and writer Chinta Ravindran, together with the undersigned, makes the following appeal:

the names of gaza

We invite individuals and organisations across Kerala to join a series of district-level meetings, where the children killed in Gaza will be remembered, name by name, by a cross-section of the people of each district. Interspersing this act of remembering and refusing to forget, will be other modes of artistic expressions and outpourings.

These vigils will move in relay—a venue will pick up the reading of the names of the children from where it was left off at the previous venue—until all the names are read and the 14 districts are covered.

Alongside, a digital multimedia campaign will seek to amplify and carry voices raised on the ground further and beyond Kerala to the rest of India and the world.

The relay begins on October 2 in Kochi and will end on November 15 in Thiruvananthapuram

Let us gather, mourn, and resist forgetting.
